EXT. HOME - CONTINUED

From Dennis’ POV we can see he’s looking at the second-floor open window.

Dennis quickly grabs a three-prong garden fork, the drawstring from his hoodie, ties them together, and throws impromptu grabbling hook to above window. It hooks on the windowsill as the string is pulled taut.

INT. BEDROOM - CONTINUED

From inside the second-floor room we see the impromptu grabbling hook latch on the windowsill. Dennis’ arm comes over the windowsill, struggling to pull himself up into the room.

CUT TO:

INT. HOME - CONTINUED

In the room where Dennis’ keys are, we hear him falling into the room above. It is quite the commotion. Dennis comes down the stairs, picks up his keys. We see a look of accomplishment on his face, satisfaction from overcoming adversity. It is at this moment we hear his roommate’s voice. He’s sitting in his bathroom and boxers, eating a bowl of cereal. Unaware of Dennis’ now ending adventure.
ROOMMATE

“What’s with all the racket?”

Dennis’ once proud face turns to embarrassment and frustration.
